

Life from the perspective of a Pigeon

By Mihir Konkar

I am a pigeon. There are many things I don't know, but one thing that is for certain, is that humans are very interesting to watch. Pigeons don't have a purpose in life, we just fly, sleep, eat, and poop on human civilizations. That is what makes us really good observers. Ever since I was a chick, I had a fascination for people. They always seemed so busy, darting from one place to another like honeybees. I must admit that I am pretty jealous of their lifestyle. How I wish to be a human! Maybe there is someday I can.....
